

PROPOSALS by William Morgan His Majesty's Cosmographer, for Vending Mr. Ogilby's WORKS in a Standing LOTTERY, to Enable him to Finish BRITANNIA, with the Second Part of ASIA, and EUROPE.

By His MAJESTY's Authority under the Great Seal, &c. Hillary Term 1676

HEREAS John Ogilby Esq; his Majesty's Cosmographer, with the Approbation and Encouragement of His most Gracious Majesty, His Royal Highness, the Lords of the Council, and others of the Nobility, did Undertake the Actual Survey of England, &c. In Order to the Compiling an Historical and Geographical Description thereof, under the Title of BRITANNIA.

The Charge being Computed by the Lords Referees to 14000 £. towards which, His Majesty and His Royal Consort being follow'd by Their Royal Highness's, with some of the Nobility, and the City of London, there was Subscribed 1900 £.

By which, and the Disposal of Part of his Books in a Standing Lottery; He, with the Assistance of his Kinsman William Morgan, Proceeded so far as to Publish the First Volume, and Prepare as much Work for the Volume of County-Maps as hath Cost 4000 £. more; the Charge of what is already Survey'd, &c. amounting to above 7000 £. which is upwards of 5000 £. more than hath been Receiv'd by Subscription.

And, whereas since the Death of Mr. Ogilby, William Morgan hath undertaken the said Work, having Finish'd and Publish'd the Actual Survey of London to general Satisfaction. And earnestly desiring suddenly to Compleat a Work so much to the Honor and Advantage of His Majesty and His Kingdoms, especially since it is brought so near Perfection. He doth hereby expose the whole Remainder of Mr. Ogilby's Books in this Lottery, wherein is Propos'd Considerable Gain at no Great Adventure.

And to the End the Lots may be suddenly Drawn, and the Number of Blanks easily known; finding also by former Experience, that few or none adventure less than Twenty Shillings, It is thought good to make the Lots 20 s. a-piece, allowing near two Prizes for one Blank, the least Prize being a Book of 18 s. which, whosoever Draws single and doth not like, shall receive 15 s. for it again.

The Number of the Prizes is 1382. amounting to 2575 £. but by lessing the Blanks is reduc'd to 2182 £. for the Number of Blanks are but 800. which added to the 1382 Prizes 20 s. each, is 2182 £.

But considering the Abatements made in the Proposals, and the Satisfaction given to those that fortune to Draw Blanks, the Adventurers will have the Books for less than half the Value; which, for their Encouragement, will certainly, when this Disposal is over, advance; as hath done the Price of the BIBLE, which being sold by Mr. Ogilby for Thirty Shillings, is now rais'd to Five Pounds Ten Shillings; for that none of these Books will ever be Printed again.

THE PROPOSALS.

- I. The Price of each Lot is Twenty Shillings, but to avoid the Loss of Time, and the Charge of long Attendance in Drawing the Lots, who so pleaseth to adventure in the Box shall be abated One Shilling; the Adventurer paying Ten Shillings on the receipt of his Ticket, and Nine Shillings when he receives his Books, which shall be as soon as Drawn.
- II. They that adventure for Five Lots, paying Fifty Shillings before-hand as aforesaid, shall be abated 1 s. 6 d. in the Pound; or be Presented to the Value if they Draw under 5 £.
- III. Such as adventure for Ten Lots, paying Five Pound before-hand as aforesaid, shall receive one additional Lot, viz. Eleven for Ten; and be Presented to the Value if they Draw under 10 £.
- IV. Whosoever adventures Forty Shillings and shall happen to Draw two Blanks, shall be presented with a Book of Forty Shillings.

We doubt not by this fair and cheap Vendition of Our Books to raise Money, and then, beside the Progres will be made in the Survey of England, the Subscribers may expect Asia Perfect before Michaelmas next, and Europe in short time after.
